Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by DERWENT ABSTRACT (CN 1144102A abstract).

Claims are drawn to a method of extracting organic substances present in coral comprising treating the coral with a fluid or mixture of fluids in a supercritical state without modifying the crystalline structure of said coral, and a temperature less than 270 degrees C, and at a pressure much higher than the critical pressure of the fluid.

DERWENT ABSTRACT teaches the same, see entire abstract, all lines, wherein an organic substance present in coral is subjected to extracting procedures using supercritical carbon dioxide, at a temperature less than 270 degrees C and at a given optimum pressure which can be higher than the critical pressure of the fluid.

The claims are identical to the cited DERWENT ABSTRACT and are, therefore, considered to be anticipated by the teachings therein.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Art Unit: 1651

Claims 2-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over DERWENT ABSTRACT in view of US 4990333, Lane et al, both cited on enclosed PTO-892 Form.

Claims are further drawn to extraction with ethanol, acetone and mixtures of either with carbon dioxide at varied optional optimum temperature and pressure to provide for a coral treatment to provide for a bone substitute.

DERWENT ABSTRACT is discussed above.

Lane et al teach extraction with ethanol, acetone and mixtures of either with carbon dioxide at varied optional optimum temperature and pressure to provide for a coral treatment to provide for a bone substitute, note col. 1, lines 53-54, col. 4, lines 25-26 and 61.

Claims differ from the DERWENT ABSTRACT in that ethanol extraction and varied other claimed extractions and optimum temperature and pressure increases and/or changes are not specifically described by the ABSTRACT to provide for a bone substitute. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the claimed invention was made to apply ethanol extract in a coral treatment as disclosed by DERWENT to optimize extraction procedures and to remove contaminants with carbon dioxide mixture containing ethanol in order to provide for a bone substitute. Bone is often used in oral areas and other areas of the body which requires sterilization and no contaminants.

To use a well known technique as ethanol extraction in the cited prior art, Lane et al, is clearly an obvious modification of the cited prior art. One of skill in the art would have been motivated to use ethanol and carbon mixtures because they are well known in the art and also removes unwanted debris or contaminants. To optimize pressure and temperature in order to maximize extraction yield is clearly within the purview of an ordinary artisan and matter of routine optimization in the art. In the absence of persuasive evidence to the contrary the claims are rendered prima facie obvious over the cited prior art.

All claims fail to be patentably distinguishable over the state of the art discussed above and cited on the enclosed PTO-892 and/or PTO-1449. Therefore, the claims are properly rejected.

The remaining references listed on the enclosed PTO-892 and/or PTO-1449 are cited to further show the state of the art.

No claims are allowed.
